synopsis | 100 words

Damage Control is a dramatic comedy series about a guy named Jesse who finds work manipulating people's relationships. There is nothing he wouldn't do for his clients. However most jobs are more than one man can handle. Which motivates him into constantly convincing his closest friends to assist him into pull off his schemes of helping people. From one scheme to the next Jesse befriends a wide variety of individuals. All the while making sure to add them to his network for the future. In it for the long haul Jesse sees everyone as a valuable asset. Which he uses to his advantage as he finds ways of persuading them to help him, themselves and others. Like most things in life relationship manipulation is very unpredictable creating many surprising outcomes you never see coming.

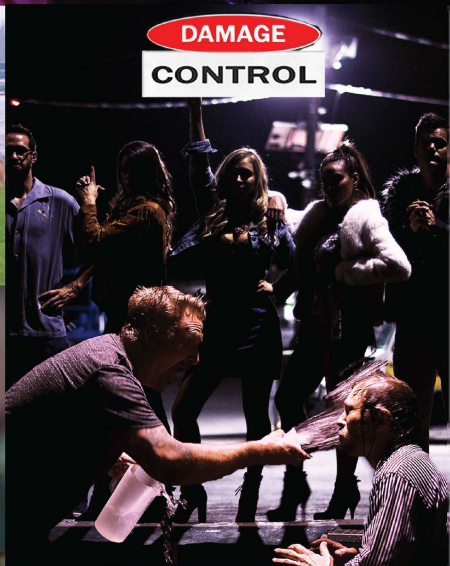

Director's statement

Working on Damage Control was a great experiment in comedy for myself. It was a fun project to create because it was based on the silliness in life while exploring some serious situations.

“Damage Control is a fun comedy that saves the day one date at a time.”

A very talented cast including.
